GRENADA CITY SCHOOLS TO OPEN THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 9TH, 1937

Grenada City Schools will open Thursday, September 9th. Preliminary to the opening certain information of interest to the patrons will be published.

Pupils in the elementary grades will report for registration at Miss Horn's office in the elementary school building for classification as indicated below:

Wednesday, September 1, all city children.

Thursday, September 2nd, Tie Plant and Elliott pupils.

Friday, September 3rd, Fair Ground, Valley Hill, Wolfe Hardy, Brooks and Kirkman.

High School

Monday, September 6th, 8 a. m. to 11 a. m., 9th grade.

Monday, September 6th, 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. 10th grade.

Tuesday, September 7th, 8 a. m. to 11 a. m. 11th grade.

Tuesday, September 7th, 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. 12th grade.

Children who have not heretofore been pupils in Grenada City Schools must bring their report cards from school last attended. High School pupils entering from another school must give the superintendent the name of school last attended that a transcript may be obtained by the superintendent on which to base pupil's classification. New high school pupils will not be classified until the superintendent secures their records from previous schools attended.

All pupils entering from Fair Ground District will be required to pay tuition for the first month on entrance to the school; in the elementary school, $4.50; in the high school, $6.00. This requirement is necessary for the County Superintendent informs us that he will not have funds for the Fair Ground District children for the entire nine months. We are informed by the County Superintendent that funds are available for pupils rfom all the other districts for the full nine months.

Minimum Age Requirement

The Mississippi Law fixes the entrance school age at 6 years. We will admit pupils who are six years of age by the 1st of November. No beginners will be accepted whose sixth birthday comes after November 1st.

Anti-Infantile Paralysis Spray

Health officials require that all children be given the anti-infantile paralysis spray either at home or at school. Each child receiving spray at home will kindly notify the superintendent or principal. If children are sprayed at home it will not be necessary for them to be again sprayed at school. Dr. Brown, city and county health officer, suggests that the spray be applied every other day until the child has been sprayed four times; after spraying four times, every other day, then once a week.

Text Books

Do not buy second hand or new text books before receiving a book list from school. There will be some changes in high school books.

Coach Hathorn Calls For Football Prictice

Coach Hathorn requests all candidates for the Grenada High School football team for the coming season to meet him on the athletic field at the high school Wednesday, August 25, at 2:30 o'clock p. m.

Happy urges all the boys who are interested to be there without fail as he has several good games scheduled for the first part of the season.

Mr. Edgar A. Dailey 68 Years Of Age Passes To Beyond

Mr. Dailey Was Operating a Plantation at Blaine at the Time of His Death

Funeral services for Edgar A. Dailey, who died Sunday, August 15, at the Baptist Hospital in Memphis, were held at the Baptist Church at Blaine Monday.

Mr. Dailey, who was 68 years of age, was a native of Torrance and a brother of the late R. Dailey of Torrance. He was a graduate of the Louisville (Ky.) College of Dentistry. He practiced for several years but ill health forced him to give up his profession. At the time of his death he was operating a plantation at Blaine, where he had been engaged in farming for many years.

Mr. Dailey was a member of the Baptist Church and was very active in church and civic affairs.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Lola Daily, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Clayton Johnson, Jr., of Memphis, and Miss Lola Dailey, of Jackson, Miss.; a son, Edgar A. Dailey, Jr., and a sister, Mrs. W. R. Tiffany, of Jackson, Tenn.

12-Cent "Bottom" For Cotton Means Another Good Year

Not Prosperity That Bumper Crops Should Warrant But Averts Catastrophe

Another 300 million dollar gross income for state farmers seems in prospect as a bumper crop of cotton bids fair to yield 12-cent or more per pound, and as food, grain and hay crops flourish, writes J. C Holton, commissioner of agriculture.

The assurance of 12-cent per pound was given by the President Saturday conditioned upon compliance with a production control law to be enacted at the coming session of Congress, after Commissioner Holton and other Southern agricultural commissioners had spent a full week in Washington to stop crashing cotton prices, and during which they appeared before the Senate and House Agricultural Committees, consulted with Secretary Wallace and numerous Senators and Congressmen, and laid a final appeal before President Roosevelt personally.

"The assurance of approximately 12-cents per pound means approximately $60.00 per bale," Commissioner Holton stated. "It means more in Mississippi, for more than half our cotton is of premium quality and staple length. It means still more than that, for cotton producers because of the loan will not be required to sacrifice their crop, and will benefit by price increases that are easily possible.

"Last year Mississippi farmers had a gross income of a little more than 300 million dollars. This year's estimate of 1,917,000 bales should yield not under 120 million dollars, and 850,000 tons of seed at last year's price should yield about 30 million dollars. Adding approximately 10 million dollars received from conservation payments, the cotton crop should net approximately 160 million dollars, though, of course, cotton price may go higher and seed price may go either higher or lower and there may be variations from the estimated yield.

"A little less than half the gross farm income in Mississippi comes from crop and livestock production. There are somewhat fewer acres of food, feed and grain crops, but apparent yields are such as to insure that we shall have more corn, hay, and forage. Altogether, therefore there is reasonable assurance that the income for 1937 will not be considerably lower and may possibly be considerably higher than last year's satisfactory income of 300 million dollars.

"So, with cotton price stabilized, it looks like prosperity is to remain in Mississippi for at least another year."

Cooperative Hunting Between Landowners and Sportsmen Urged

Plan, Yet in Suggestive Stage, Calls For Rental of Shooting Rights on Farm Lands

operative hunting arrangement between landowners and sportsmen, tween landonwers and sportsmen, designed to encourage proper observance of game laws, was outlined by W. E. McIntyre, of Brandon, chairman of the State Game and Fish Commission.

The plan, yet in suggestive stage, calls for rental of shooting rights on farm lands.

"Where good bird hunting is available, sportsmen will be glad to pay a small rental for the right to use the area," Chairman McIntyre said. "In addition to providing hunting spots near homes of the sportsmen, the plan would encourage enforcement of the game laws in that farmers really interested would see that their lands are properly equipped with cover and feed crops to attract birds."

"Then too, they would close the area when the supply is reduced to the number required for next year's breeding stock," he said.

The plan fits in with the propagation program of the State Game and Fish Commission, under which vast areas have been restocked with birds and seed distributed over the state for feeding purposes.

In some sections of the country, where the plan has been in operation, communities have organized themselves to carry out such a proposal, with neighboring farms grouped to provide ample hunting areas.

Chairman McIntyre explained that the program would not interfere with the public shooting grounds, or property owned by the state.

"Another feature of the plan is that landowners and sportsmen would become better acquainted, leading to a better feeling between them," he said.

Pointing to the enormous demand for bird shooting areas, Chairman McIntyre explained that the number of sportsmen is increasing with the supply diminishing. With proper food and cover available, and ample protection afforded game birds from their natural enemies, the number will increase rapidly.

All rules and regulations of the State Game and Fish Commission pertaining to seasons and bag limit, and licenses, are effective on the area.

"Observance of the game laws is a very necessary and important item in the proposed program," Mr. McIntyre explained.

GRENADA SHOULD SUPPORT THE RACING PROGRAMS

The people of Grenada and surrounding territory will have one more chance to witness fine Harness Races to be held at the Fair Grounds next Thursday. It all depends upon whether the crowd that comes cut next Thursday, as to whether these good people, Mr. Parks and Mr. Stein will continue these races or not.

The gross gate receipts last Thursday were only $53.25, which we consider a shame, this amount would not pay for the advertising. These good men had spent something like $400.00 or $500.00 to put on the races last Thursday. We can truthfully say that there were more people here from Greenwood, Shelby, and even as far away as Greenville, than there were from Grenada. The Grenada Fair Grounds are the prettiest in Mississippi, ideal in every respect, and this was the reason that Messrs. Parks and Stein picked out this location, so why not have at least 1,000 or 1,500 people from Grenada out there next Thursday?

We heard several people out there last Thursday from Greenwood say, "that they enjoyed the afternoon, and that they would be back for next Thursday's races, and furthermore, they would bring somebody with them."

If you intend going fishing, playing golf, or something else next Thursday, put that off for a day, for, you can do this most any afternoon, and take 50c and go out and spend the afternoon at the Fair Grounds, and see some of the best mile harness races to be seen anywhere.

Just think of the number of Grenada people who will buy 15 gallons of gas, a quart of oil, lose a whole day's time, and drive to Memphis over rough roads, pay a dollar for a ticket to witness a baseball game, when they can take half a dollar and go out one mile and spend a pleasant afternoon witnessing the King of Sports.

Let's show Messrs. Parks and Stein that the people of Grenada appreciate them locating here, and also tell the people from the Delta at the races next Thursday that we are glad to have them with us. We assure you that these races are high class in every respect, and when you see them, you will say that it was an afternoon well spent.

THE ROLAND RAYBURN FAMILY

(By W. E. Boushe)

As I turn back the pages of memory of the names which have meant much to me. Ever and anon there comes one which causes me to pause, one which stands out like a cameo in bold relief, those who have contributed to the joy and happiness in days long gone. The ones I would mention in this connection are my friends of the past as well as the present, the Roland Rayburn family, who for many years when neighbors meant much, were our friends as well as neighbors—and better ones a person never had, kind, obliging and conscientious. Mr. Roland Rayburn and his noble wife, Frances "Dobbs" Rayburn, originally came to Mississippi, Mr. Rayburn from Carolina, Mrs. Rayburn from Alabama, settling in Choctaw county. Some years later moving to Grenada county. Soon making their permanent home at the old Verbin place four miles east of Grenada on the middle road, the old house in a delapidated condition, still stands. As Whittiers poem says, "a ragged beggar sunning," but oh what a home of cordiality and hospitality it has been in the years long gone. Mr. Rayburn greatly improved the Verbin place, which by the way still belongs to the Rayburn family. Mr. and Mrs. Rayburn were remarkable people, the parents of a respectable and God-fearing family, all delighting in religious affairs. The whole family, young and old were the most resourceful family I have ever known. They were fine farmers. I can't think now of a good watermelon without thinking of them. They had a fine orchard of peaches, apples and pears. "Bumble bees" could really chase you out of the pear orchard, too. To Mr.

GRENADA COUNTY SCHOOLS TO OPEN MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 6TH, 1937

Another vacation period for teachers and children is nearly over. Preparation is being made for the opening of the 1937-1938 school session on Monday, September 6, for the white, and on Monday, November 1, for the colored schools. Those are the dates set for opening the white and colored schools by the Grenada County School Board. There will probably be some slight variations in the dates of opening some school, due to the fact that the trustees of any school may, according to the wishes of the patrons, set a date more convenient for the community.

Most of the teaching force has been selected for the schools. The trustees have tried to select well trained and efficient teachers, keeping in mind the positions to be filled. Most of those selected are college graduates, especially in the consolidated schools. All teachers in the consolidated high schools meet the requirements of the State Accrediting Commission.

Transportation equipment is being put in satisfactory condition for the opening of school. The Grenada County School Board has lowered the cost of operation where possible, keeping in mind safe and satisfactory transportation for all children. As a whole, better equipment will be in use this year than was used last term. Several new routes have been added this session. The Kirkman and Brooks school routes have been established to transport children to the Grenada City Schools. Each of those districts put on a special tax levy to help pay the cost of the transfer. The outlook is good for satisfactory conveyance throughout the year.

Attention of the patrons should be called not to buy text-books before securing the book lists from the teachers. The speller has been changed, and probably the English. Some schools will no doubt use the same English texts as of last session, especially where there are enough books to supply the classes. The teachers will have to be the judges in determining whether or not a sufficient number of the old books can be obtained to justify using them. It is a matter of general knowledge that the English adoption is in such condition of doubt that the county superintendent of education cannot advise with authority what text book to use. Where the new English is purchased, I would suggest that it be placed in the odd grades; due to the fact that one book covers two, beginning in the third grade. By so doing the child can use the same book two years.

There are certain other probable changes in books in the seventh and eighth grades in school that combine those grades with the senior high school. Therefore, I would advise that no books be

Leburn Yielding, Age 20, Died Saturday, August 14

He Was the Victim of Typhoid The First Case In Grenada County in 4 Years

Leburn Yielding, age 20, died Saturday, August 14th, at the family home at Futheyville. He was a victim of typhoid fever. Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon with Rev. E. R. Henderson, pastor of the Central Baptist Church officiating. Burial was at Woodlawn cemetery.

Mr. Yielding was born in Tetone County, Idaho on May 15th, 1917. Besides his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. John Yielding, he is survived by four sisters, Rebecca, Louise, Ethel and Mrs. Ruby Poe; and two brothers, Wilber and Ruben.

Two of his sisters, Ethel and Rebecca Yielding and one brother, Ruben, also have typhoid fever. Through the efforts of Mrs. W. D. Salmon, assisted by her husband, a trained nurse has been employed that she might assist in restoring these brothers and sisters to health.

The Sentinel extends its sympathy to the surviving relatives and friends.

Suit Filed Against State Supt. By The American Book Co.

Seek to Compel Him to Notify School Officials of State of Adoption of Text Books

(By Walker Wood)

A circuit court case of widespread interest to the state is that of the American Book Company, which concern last week filed mandamus procedings in the Sunflower county circuit court against State Superintendent of Education J. S. Vandiver seeking to compel him to notify school officials of the State of the adoption of text books. The litigation was brought in Sunflower county because of the fact that it is Mr. Vandiver's home county.

This matter has grown out of a difference of opinion of the state superintendent with other members of the Elementary Text Book Commission, dating back to the consideration of the adoption of text books last fall. A meeting of the text book commission was held on October 17, 1936, and bids were received and opened for text books.

In the matter of voting on the American Book Company on the adoption of their bid for a "Language Series," entitled "English Activities," the bid was accepted by the commission, with Superintendent Vandiver voting against said award or adoption, for the alleged reasons that the English books then in use had been adopted only two years prior thereto, and are cheaper than the present bid under consideration, and that he did not believe a change at that time was necessary.

The law requires the Governor to sign all contracts, but the Chief Executive, agreed with the opinions of the state superintendent, and declined to sign the contract for the American Book Co., and gave his reasons therefor in a letter to the Commission under date of December 19, 1936.

Attorney General Greek Rice holds that the contract is void without the signature and approval of the Governor, and accordingly Superintendent Vandiver did not notify the school authorities of the State of a contract held not to be valid, and the suit in the Sunflower court is to compel him to so notify and recognize the contract.

The attorney general will defend the suit, and states that he does not anticipate a long drawn out suit, but it is expected that no matter what the decision of the lower court is, that it will be brought to the supreme court this fall.

Luther Latham a Grenada Visitor

Hon. Luther Latham, prominent attorney, of Eupora, and candidate for Circuit Judge of this district, was a Grenada visitor on Friday of last week.

While the election is not until next year, Mr. Latham is going about over the district calling on as many people as circumstances will permit and letting them know that his "hat is in the ring."

Mr. Latham has practiced law for the past 24 years and comes highly recommended by the people of Eupora and Webster county. He has handled many cases before the courts of Grenada county and is well known here. We have known him for the past 16 years, and know him to be a most able lawyer and a gentleman.

Permanent Pastures Offered Farmers

Improvement of permanent pastures offer farmers of Grenada county the best opportunity for providing their livestock with cheap feed and the best means for controlling erosion on their farms, says County Agent J. L. Cooley.

An ever ready permanent pasture with 6 to 8 inches of growth for work stock, beef cattle, dairy cattle, sheep, goats, hogs and chickens that work the land and furnish food for the family, is one of the best crops on the farm.

Good pastures serve to conserve and maintain soil fertility 12 months in the year. Many farmers do not consider pasture a cash crop because they never actually see any money coming directly from the pasture. But livestock are the "middlemen" in this case, says County Agent Cooley.

The value of improved permanent pasture has been strikingly proved by the coastal plains experiment station in Mississippi which showed that improved pasture required only 1.5 acres per animal unit as compared with 10 acres of native pasture per animal unit. And the improved pasture produced better gains. The animals on improved pasture gained 260 pounds per head while those on unimproved pasture gained only 106 pounds per head.

The last census reported 6,548,005 acres in pastures in Mississippi and 2,826,695 head of livestock including horses, mules, cattle, sheep and swine. Only about 10 percent of the total pasture land of the state is improved so that it will carry one animal unit to 1.5 acres nine months in the year. This indicates the tremendous need for an extensive pasture improvement program.

County Agent Cooley reports that farmers of the county are now taking a greater interest in seeding new pastures, in reseeding, fertilizing and otherwise improving old pastures because they can earn payments under the Agricultural Conservation Program and because they appreciate more than ever the value of pastures in their farming system.

Plain Uncooked Cottage Cheese

Most people like plain uncooked cottage cheese. It is especially pleasing in summer, blended with rich cream and a little salt, or eaten with cream and sugar. It combines well with berries, peaches or other fresh fruits; also with canned fruits, raisins, cut dates or other dried fruits, brown sugar, honey, jam or marmalade, or chopped nuts. Cottage cheese, Miss May Hadden, extension nutritionist at State College reminds us, is high in nutritive value. It contains all the constituents of milk except the cream. Like milk, it is a source of protein, which is used to build and repair body tissue.

Cottage cheese lends itself especially well to salads. One of the best liked is stuffed tomato salad, served on lettuce leaves with salad dressings. Dates, cucumbers, peaches, pears, figs, prunes, and other vegetables and fruits may be used.

Another good summer salad combines cottage cheese and green peppers. After removing the pulp and seeds from a green pepper, it is stuffed with cottage cheese seasoned with salt and pepper. Chopped nuts and chopped red pepper may be added also. After the stuffed pepper has stood in a cool place for an hour, it is sliced and served on lettuce leaves.

Cottage cheese balls rolled in chopped nuts, served on a slice of pineapple, makes a refreshing salad, too.

OVER 100 NYA FORESTERS ENGAGED IN FIRE FIGHTING

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 14—Mississippi's more than 100 NYA foresters engaged in fire fighting and other forest projects today received the plaudits of State Forester Merrill on the "excellent results which have been accomplished."

"Don't think the job is done," he warned, however. "With more than 20,000 fires still burning nearly five million acres of good Mississippi land, timber and young growth, and with almost all these fires caused by people, we must admit that we have to see a lot more people

"It may seem strange," the state forester said, "but I think it is easier now to prevent a fire happening next January than it is to wait until next January to attempt the same thing. So," he told the NYA foresters, "while you are out there helping to get our telephone lines, roads and other improvements in shape for the next fire season, don't miss an opportunity to speak a good word for fire prevention."

"When you have helped us to do a perfect job of fire prevention, then, we can all settle down to a real forestry program of planting, thinning, stand improvement, proper cutting programs, etc., uninterrupted by hurry calls to help fight our neighbor's fires." Merrill told the foresters.

This NYA program in the state is a cooperative one of the National Youth Administration and the Mississippi Forest Service

PLANNING PARAGRAPHS

(By Ruben L. Parson, Land Planner, State Planning Commission)

(Editor's Note: This is the 4th of a series of articles on planning for a longtime program of proper land use, one of the chief objectives of Mississippi Planning Commisison in an intensive study of land conditions in the state now being conducted under the direction of Mr. Parson.)

Interpretive Presentation of Facts Second Step in Planning

With factual data accumulated, the planner strives to summarize and explain the various groups and their relation to one another. With all avaliable facts before him he analyzes cause and effect.

Here's an abandoned mill town! Why is it abandoned, because its timber supply was exhausted.

Here's a community enjoying unusual prosperity! How can it prosper so remarkably? Perhaps because its citizens cooperate.

Here's a large farming section without a decent house in it. Why aren't the houses better? Perhaps there are too many people for the land to support and perhaps the land is not fit for farming at all.

An infinite number of examples might be suggested.

Thus we see that after the first step in planning has answered the question, "What?" The second step answers the questions, "Why?" and "How?" The facts are valuable only when they are interpreted intelligently.

To state the facts clearly, the scientist must first weigh and evaluate them and then direct their effective organization and illustration by his statisticians and cartographers. The planner rpesents and argues his case with the aid of exhibits (tables, graphs, maps etc.,) prepared by his technicians.

Another analysis, quite as close as that between planner and lawyer may be drawn between the planner and the military expert. When the army officer has been assigned his mission he immediately prepares for transmittal to his superior an "estimate of the situation," stating the comparative strength of opposing forces and their advantages of position, support, etc. He concludes his estimate with a "decision" outlining his plan of attack, based on evaluated facts. That decision and the mode of reasoning by which it is reached are nicely analogous to the planner's interpretation of facts and the plan he formulates. In our next installment, concerned with the formulation of a plan, let us elucidate that analogy.

State Senator Frank H. Harper, of the 42nd District, composed of Forrest and Perry counties, has prepared a Senate Bill for introduction at the 1938 legislature, providing for a state license for automobile and other motor vehicle drivers, under rather stringent provisions for safety, and State Senator Robt. S. Weems of the 13th district of Newton and Scott counties has endorsed as co-author, and Senator Harper states that other Senators will also champion the passage of the bill.

In brief, the definitions and provisions of the proposed law are as follows: The term motor vehicle means all vehicles propelled by other than muscular power, except vehicles operated on stationary rails or tracks, nor shall the term include any road rollers, road machinery, farm tractor or implement of husbandry moved or propelled over highways temporarily from one place to another.

The term "highway" means way or place open for vehicular travel ic,nluding streets of a municipality. The term "operator" means every person in actual physical control of a motor vehicle on a highway. The term "owner" means a person holding legal title to a motor vehicle, or vendee or lessee of such.

The bill provides that after May 1, 1938, no person except those exempted shall drive any motor vehicle on the highways of Mississippi without a valid operator's license, issued under the provisions of this act. The exemptions are as follows: Motor Vehicle operators of the army, navy or marine corps, in time of war; or any person over 15 years of age, holding a license from another state or country, or a registration certificate as required by his state or country.

No operator's license shall be issued to the following persons in Mississippi: 1. To any person under 15 years of age. 2. To any person whose license has been revoked for one of the following causes: (a) Being drunk or intoxicated with whiskey or narcotic drugs, or having alcoholic beverages on person or in his car; or (b) permitting any person intoxicated, or having alcoholic beverages to ride with the operator; or (c) any "hit and run" operator, who fails to stop and render possible aid to injured persons; or (d) any operator, responsible for the death of a human being.

3. To any person who is an habitual drunkard or narcotic drug addict. 4. To any person whose license has been suspended or revoked for reasons other than those already mentioned. 5. To any person, who by reason of mental or physical disability, is adjudged by the sheriff or other party authorized to issue operators license not to be able to operate a motor vehicle on highways with safety

In making application for a driver's license, the owner shall file with the sheriff the make, type, motor number and year or model of his motor vehicle and the names of all persons whom he shall permit to drive such motor vehicle.

Likewise, any operator applying for license to the sheriff shall state in his application the owner, make, type, motor number, and model of the motor vehicle he wishes to drive—the form of the application to be prescribed by the attorney general, the said application form to contain the following provisions: Name, age, sex, color, social status, address, place of resident, and whether applicant's license has ever been revoked or suspended, and if so, full particulars thereof. The sheriff shall examine the applicant, oral and written examination, and take his finger prints. He is allowed a fee of 50c for this service and for the license.

The Mississippi Advertising Commission, under the able and alert supervision of Director Ed Lipscomb, announces that this month the Commisison will open its direct-by-mail campaign of advertising Mississippi's vast and varied opportunities—a campaign that will consist of personal letters to the heads of approximately 30,000 of America's 176,000 manufacturing plants.

The first group of letters according to Director Lipscomb, will go to approximately 1100 plants using clay as raw material,, and the second group of 12,000 letters will go to plants using cotton as raw material. These letters, sent over the signature of the Governor, will be followed up by information and literature direct from the Commission. Something more will be said on this subject in next week's news letter.

From the biennial report of the State Oil and Gas Board, copy for which report has been filed with the secretary of state and Budget Commission, Director Henry Toler reveals that 225 oil and gas wells have been drilled in Mississippi from 1903 to date, which number is exclusive of those drilled in the Jackson gas field. These 225 wells were drilled in 64 different counties of the state, evidencing that oil and gas activities exist practically all over the state.

Second quarterly collections of the unemployment compensation commission, presided over by Executive Director Leon Wheeless, caused Mississippi's fund for the protection of the unemployed to reach a total of more than 1½ million dollars, and interest earned on Mississippi's fund so far amounts to $12,000, according to Mr. Wheeless. "Unemployment compensation seeks to build up a reserve from which payments can be made for a limited number of weeks to persons who lose their jobs through no fault of their own," Director Wheeless stated.

State Auditor Carl N. Craig, who last week attended the annual convention of state auditors, comptroller and treasurers, at Duluth, Minnesota, extended an urgent invitation for the convention to hold its 1938 session in Mississippi, and his invitation was augmented by a pressing appeal from other state officials of Mississippi. Galveston, Texas, was the chief opponent, but Auditor Craig landed the plum for the Magnolia State, a wire being received from him August 13th that Mississippi gets the convention next year.

Camp Circle

A camp circle, complete with side shows, marked the close of the third week at Camp Tallaha for girls. The circus opened with a circus parade by all of the campers.

The first performance given in the ring was a concert by the clown band, composed of Patsy Pearson, Peggy Cheape, Dona Payne, Ruth Morrow, Virginia Lee, and Miriam Smith. The clowns rendered beautiful music on their comb and tennis racquet instruments.

The trained horse, Ethel Gray Wells and Mary Moore danced about the ring for the campers.

Jane Ice, Cleo Bennett, Frances Barlow, Carolyn Whitaker, Elizabeth Sturdivant, Annie Ruth Sosebee, Nannie Sue Rich, Peggy Mahoney, Austine Neely, and Elizabeth Buchler did an Indian dance.

The Midget Athlete, Margaret Wade, Evelyn Fried, Nancy Hosney, and Jamie Farmer put on a tumbling act.

Madamoiselle Ivy Moss, Miss Edith Turpin, and her chorus, Jane Hart, Lillian York, Patsy Foster, Joyce Yopp, Betty Mahony, and Jean Gunn sang and pantomined "I Went to The Anamil Fair."

Tight Wire Walker, Melvin Downing did marvelous acts upon her imaginary rope.

The Tumbling Clown set was done by Charlotte Hogan, Cathrine Rossie, Marjorie Murphee, Alice Murphee, Ruth McNeal and Mary R. Horton.

Leha, the Aviatrix, Jamie Farmer, and her assistants, Mary T. Powell, and Margaret Tendall entertained the circus goers with parachute jumps.

The Minstrel Singers were Monroe and his helpers.

The Side Shows featured the Snake Lady, Elestie Man, Missing Link, Fat Lady, Bobbing for Apples, Bowling, Shuffle Board and Ring Throwing.

Dramatic Night

"The Doll Shop," "The New Maid," and "A Major Operation," were the features of dramatic night, August 13, at Camp Tallaha for girls. The skits were under the direction of Miss Anna Lois McClellan.

The cast of "Doll Shop" was: Storekeeper, Dorothy Rose; Mamma Doll, Peggy Mahony; Popeye the Sailor, Pat Bollman; Wooden Soldier, Joan Gunn; Oriental Doll, Elizabeth Buchler; French Doll, Peggy Crump; Fairy, Gertrude Russell; Shirley Temple Doll, Elizabeth Sturidant; Jumping Jack, Annie Ruth Sosebee; Bride Doll, Juanita Powell; Rag Doll, Sara Neely; Tallaha Doll, Dixie Hopson. After the fairy awakened the dolls, each performed a characteristic dance.

"The New Maid," a comic skit, was given by Rivers Rice, who played the part of an actress, and Gene Marder, who played the part of the dumb new maid.

The cast of "A Major Operation" was: Major Titwellow, Eleanor Nelson; Miss Parrot, a nurse, Virginia Lowery; Mrs. Titwellow, Jewel Palmer; Mr. Fudge, a lawyer, Dolly Ann Frankel; Mr. Chas. Bennarbasset, a gentleman, Sara Emily Buchler.

SOIL CONSERVATION COMPLIANCE PROGRAM BEGINS

(By J. L. Cooley, County Agent)

The task of determining the acreage of all crops grown on the 40,000 acres of crop lend for the farmers cooperating in the 1937 Soil Conservation Program began this week. An aerial survey was made of the entire county by the Kargl Aerial Survey, Inc., of San Antonio, Texas. The aerial photographs were delivered by Mr. L. A. Cary, State Compliance Supervisor of the State AAA office in Jackson. Mr. Cary assisted in training our county supervisor to use the maps in locating the different farms and fields of crops on the maps.

The following supervisors have been selected to visit the farms of the county and determine the crops growing on the different fields: Tom Prather, Augustus Hayward, E. G. Thomason, Clayton Carpenter, Frank Hammons, Richard Carver and Howard Mullen. Each farmer will be notified the day his farm will be checked and it is very necessary that he assist the supervisor in locating the boundary of his farm and in determining the crops growing on the different fields.

Soil Building Payments Earned With Terracing and Winter Legumes.

Each farmer will be notified as soon as possible of the acreages of the different crops growing on his farm. In case the acreage of the soil conserving crops (peas, soybeans, lespedeza, etc.) is not sufficient to qualify for the diversion or rental benefit payments the farmer will be permitted to qualify his place by planting winter legume crops of vetch, Austrian peas and bur clover.

Under the regulations of the 1937 Soil Conservation Program farmers are required to plow under a sufficient acreage of peas and soybeans to qualify for the $1.50 per acre soil building payment. In case the farmer prefers to graze these crops or cut them for hay he will be permitted to do so to earn this $1.50 per acre soil building payment by terracing and planting winter legumes.

MIKE CONNER'S MOTHER ANSWERS MASTER'S CALL.

We, along with thousands of other Mississippian's extend our heartfelt sympathy to Ex-Governor Mike Conner, his sister and brothers in the loss of their mother, who passed away in a Jackson hospital Sunday, August 15.

We knew Mrs. Conner personally and had the highest regard for her. She was very gracious and kind, a mother truly to be proud of.

She was a woman who would always make you go away feeling better after being associated with her. She was closely associated with the church and was ever trying to bring joy into the life of some one, especially her children.

While words cannot stay the sorrow that death brings the loved ones left behind, they can always have joy and comfort in the knowledge that their mother lived a good, clean and useful life and has only gone to rest in the arms of Jesus, who awaits all Christians.

MORE PARK BENCHES SHOULD BE PROVIDED FOR VISITORS

Grenada could spend money in no better way than in spending it for benches to be placed in the park in the center of the square.

We invite our country friends to come to Grenada and trade with us, and they do it. They are loyal to Grenada as most of them spend their money with us. We go to the country to visit them. They offer us a comfortable chair either at the home or out under the shade trees. Quite often they load us down with fruit, vegetables or good ole field peas. They invite us to stay and eat with them and even spend the night. In short, they show us that they enjoyed our visit and that they wish us to come again.

Take a walk around the square on Saturday and see how many people you can see sitting in a parked automobile or some stairway resting or waiting for someone. We have seen women with small babies in their arms sitting in a parked automobile for hours waiting for their husband to complete his business in Grenada. Goodness knows there is no more uncomfortable place to pass away the time than in a parked automobile on a hot summer day. One of our good lady friends from the country spent two or three hours in our office last Saturday. She said that she was waiting for the others in her party to go home and that it was so hot in the car that she believed she would have died if she had waited in it any longer.

We hope the city council will give consideration to this suggestion at their next meeting and provide benches in the park so that our country friends can enjoy themselves when they come to Grenada.

KILLING THE RAILROAD GOOSE

Because railroads cannot adjust their rate structure quickly to fluctuations in cost of operation, the steady rise in railroad taxes is an economic problem which demands serious attention, says the Commercial and Financial Chronicle.

So far as the Federal government is concerned, railroads are taxed on the same basis as industry in general. Abuses have appeared in state and local taxation. The railroads represent an investment of $26,000,000,000, and their liens traverse practically every county in the United States. Local officials have gone to tremendous ends to exploit this great industry for revenue purposes.

Railway taxes in 1936 totaled $319,700,000, of which 81 per cent was collected by state and local governments. This amounted to 28.5 per cent of the lines' net operating revenue. In other words, more than one-fourth of the property, activities and traffic of the railways was devoted to producing net operating revenue sufficient to pay the tax bill. In the case of a stringently regulated industry, whose rates are fixed by public bodies, this is an excessive and dangerous proposition.

No one can object to adequate taxation of the railroads. And a case might even be made for excessive taxation—if at the same time we made it possible for the lines to increase their revenues to meet the cost. But we cannot continue to bleed the lines of every possible dollar of revenue and expect to enjoy the lowest cost transportation.

Such a policy must in the long run lead to railroad bankruptcy. If that should happen, all units of government would be deprived of one of their main sources of support. You can't get blood from a turnip—or money from an industry taxed beyond its earning capacity. The present situation leads to one of two courses—the rails must be allowed to readjust their rates in the light of growing operating costs, or local government must revise railroad taxation on a basis of fairness, not ruthless exploitation.

CROP AND WAGE CONTROL

In the political discussions about the Government resuming control over crops and farming, and wage-fixing, there have been interesting illustrations brought out to prove that economic conditions in the southern states are entirely different from the north. Costs of living and production vary with localities, just as soon as one gets out of congested sections of population into rural areas.

Then, argue the economists, why standardize cheap and expensive areas without regard to geography?

Many people find California and other parts of the west so much cheaper to live in that they have forsaken the old east.

SEVEN MONOTONOUS AGES

"All the world's a stage . . . one man in his time plays many parts, his acts being seven ages. At first the infant, newling and puking in the nurse's arms." That's proper and classic language because Shakespeare wrote it.

"This thing's getting too monotonous for me," complained the young husband when the baby cried most of the night. After breakfast he put on his hat and became a missing person.

"The whining school boy" delivered his paper route at 6 a. m. and just before nine he went "creeping like a snail unwillingly to school." The teacher asked "what's the matter with you, Willy?" He replied disdainfully that life was so monotonous he'd like to die. The modern school m'arm poked fun at him and he quickly recovered from the depression.

"The lover, sighing like furnace," failed in his repeated efforts to secure a bid to "come up and see me some time," and that explains why he went around with a grouch and complained about the monotony. Later, he met the right girl and they lived happily ever afterwards.

The soldier "seeking the bubble reputation," fared worst of all in a monotonous war, and then returned to his monotonous old job as a typist, and finally became a linotype operator; afterwards the driver of a city bus, and husband of a flapper—then he went to Reno. He complained that all his post-war undertakings required high speed and that he was becoming a nervous wreck. One day the editor who had employed the ex-soldier found him working on an automobile assembly line and humming a tune. "Isn't this rather monotonous work" the editor inquired? "Everybody I know seems to be in some kind of high-speed job, but I'm not," replied the workman, who added: "This place is a 'honey' compared to racing over the keyboard of your linotype; all the lifting on the assembly line is done by machines, and electrical apparatus is used for all the hard jobs. It's work," he reluctantly admitted, "but I am well paid and satisfied. Monotonous? Likely—but Mr. Smith, what the hell do you think they pay me for?"

The editor confessed that his own career had its monotonous moments.

Time crept on! Came another age or man in which the editor became "the justice, in fair round belly with good capon lined." The "old soldier" arrived at the "sixth age" and recovered "his youthful hose, well-saved the world too wide for his shrunk shank."

"Last scene of all" is the seventh age, with which Mr. Shakespeare ended his "strange eventful history," wherein we find the two old friends in this modernized sketch approaching "second-childishness and mere oblivion." The editor and the ex-soldier now chuckle over the happy recollections of the sanctum and the assembly line. They have concluded that life has treated both of them fair, and that happiness is largely a state of mind which mostly every one may enjoy, by simply steering clear of monotony complexes.

Rayburn goes the honor of perpetuating this old John Curly apple, the best apple in the world, which won the blue ribbon at St. Louis World Fair. They had bees in abundance but they did not have to, because they could go to the woods any time and in a little while find wild honey. They raised turkeys, but they didn't have to, they were such expert woodsmen as to be able to kill a wild turkey in a short while, and were good on killing deer. They had a nice fish pond.

They had the nicest cows and horses which they raised themselves. They made fine cotton and corn. Mr. Rayburn could beautifully tan leather. Some of the family were expert wood-workers. The whole connection had almost faultless memory. They knew the tracks of the different horses and wagons on the road.

Of their fine children, Miss Nannie married Mr. Mack Trussell, of an old and respected family. Three of their children still survive, a son and daughter in Jackson, both of high respect, and Mrs. Carrie Trussell Davis, the wife of the late Mr. Eugene Davis. "Miss Carrie is one of the finest ladies I have ever known." Miss Kittie Rayburn another daughter, and a most excellent lady, married Mr. T. L. Avent, a fine man of a good family. Miss Kittie still lives among us. Miss Corinne Rayburn, the youngest daughter, lives with her sister, Mrs. Kittie Avent. She, as are her sisters, is a splendid lady, with a heart of gold. The sons, Willis, was a well known figure in Grenada for many years, married Miss Aldridge from Winona, a lovable lady of a fine family. They have two remarkable daughters and their children are living in our town and elsewhere. Another son, Silas, of memory, beloved by all who knew him, was for many years, a prominent citizen, one of the whitest men I ever knew. Mr. John Rayburn, an other fine son, married Mollie Evans, of a fine old Grenada county family. None of their descendants now live here. Then comes Roland and Walter, what precious memories are locked up in them. How many happy hours are locked up with them. Walter is dead. Roland is still with us, a fine citizen. He married Miss Lena Avent of an old, and respected family. They have a sweet and accomplished daughter, now grown and married. I am proud to place the Rayburn family in the front ranks of my friends.

GRENADA COUNTY SCHOOLS

bought for any grades until the child is instructed by the teacher hwat to buy. It will probably save some parents money to wait for assignments.

The county school budget has been set for eight months for all schools. Districts that run longer than that term to pay for the additional time from district tax levies or by personal contributions. If the expenses this session do not exceed those of last year, all the children attending the Grenada City Schools will be able to have the usual term, except those of the Fair Ground district. The tax levy on that district is not sufficient to pay the full term. Those with whom the matter has been discussed thought that it would be more satisfactory for each patron to pay for his own children than to attempt to increase the tax levy on the district. The county can help them only eight months. Based upon the tuition cost of last session the Fair Ground district can pay its part for nearly eight months. The additional time will have to be paid for by the parents.

Everyone knows that a great deal of uncertainty has prevailed in the past relative to the school term, and I am glad to state that the prospect for the future is bright. With the continued cooperation of the patrons, teachers and pupils we shall enjoy this year one of the best school terms Grenada county has ever had. From all those interested in better schools and better trained young people, I want to solicit for the future the same loyal cooperation that I have received in the past .Working unitedly we shall succeed.

Sincerely yours,
O. D. SPRATLIN,
Supt. Educ., Grenada County.

WASHINGTON SUMMARY

(By Congressman A. L. Ford)

During the first of the week it appeared that Congress would be able to adjourn by August 21st, the date tentatively set by the leaders of both Houses several days ago, but the last of the week, adjournment next week appeared certain.

One of the major things that appeared certain to hold the Congress in session longer than next week was the Southern Representatives' demand for action on the part of the President and Secretary of Agriculture for cotton loans and adjustment payments sufficient in amount to guarantee the farmer at least 12c a pound for their 1937 cotton crop, Delegations from both Houses called on the President and pointed out to him that he had ample authority under laws already passed by Congress and that he had sufficient funds from tariff and custom receipts to put such an arrangement into effect. The President has agreed to use the funds which Congress has appropriated from Custom receipts to prevent a major collapse in the cotton market and it is expected that a loan of ten cents will be made to all farmers who agree to cooperate with the 1938 program, if and when it is passed by Congress and put in operation by the Government, and in addition thereto, the government will pay them an adjustment between the price they receive on the market and twelve cents.

Late Wednesday afternoon when the Senate Majority leader and other senators were evidently paying little attention to what was going on, Senator Wagner of New York, unexpectedly sought and obtained recognition from the Vice-President and moved for the consideration of the Anti-Lynching bill. The Senate then attempted to adjourn so that it would displace the motion of the Senator from New York, but friends of the bill out voted the opposition and the Senate refused to adjourn. A motion was then made to recess the Senate until the next day so that the motion of Senator Wagner would be pending business. The recess motion carried and the Senate spent Thursday and a part of Friday in debating the motion of the New York Senator's, and in order to prevent weeks of debate an agreement was had between the proponents and opponents that the anti-lynching bill would be given right of way in the Senate at the next session after agricultural legislation had been disposed of.

The House Rules Committee has refused to report out a rule for the consideration of the Wages and Hours bill. Under the rules of the House the bill cannot be brought up for consideration without the rules committee should make the bill in order unless the Speaker should recognize some member so that he might move to suspend the rules. The rules require a two-thirds vote to pass a bill under a suspension of the rules and the Speaker has indicated that he would not recognize anyone for such a motion. It now appears that this bill will go over until next session.

No legislation of national importance was passed by the House or Senate this week, except a bill designated to help sugar producers and manufactures. The House passed a bill creating a new Cabinet Post and Executive Department to be known as the Department of Welfare. It provides for the appointment of a Secretary of Welfare, and under Secretary of Welfare will handle relief of the unemployed, education, sanitation, safety and public health.

On Thursday the President nominated and sent to the Senate for confirmation the name of Senator Hugo L. Black of Alabama, to be an Associate Justice on the Supreme Court of the United States. This was a great surprise to the Congress and the public, as no one ever suspected that the President was considering him for the vacancy on the Supreme Court caused by the retirement of Mr. Justice Van DeVanter. Senator Ashurst, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee of the Senate, asked unanimous concent for the immediate confirmation of Senator Black, but upon objection of Senator Johnson, of California, and Senator Burke of Nebraska, his nomination was referred to the Judiciary Committee. The Judiciary Committee has already favorably reported it back to the Senate and it is expected that he will be confirmed although there may be considerable debate over his confirmation.

Children In Court

(By Judge Malcolm Hatfield)

The Delinquency Prevention Council of Michigan has undertaken a splendid piece of work which should be supported by every social, civic, fraternal, educational and religious group throughout the nation.

This organization is serving as the nucleus of a committee to stimulate parental education and leadership in the fight against juvenile delinquency. To date, in conjunction with the Michigan Society for Mental Hygiene, it has sponsored a series of twelve radio programs over WWJ Detroit and is serving as a clearing house for information on delinquency prevention.

The Delinquency Prevention Council operates by interesting and coordinating the activities of clubs and organizations already in existence in each community. By uniting the local courts, press, police, schools, churches, and civic clubs into one compact group a unified front is presented in eliminating the various community and family factors that contribute to juvenile crime. The group is not only proving of invaluable assistance to the police and juvenile courts, but is now working on necessary legislation which should be enacted at the next session of the legislature.

Organizations such as the churches, newspapers, schools, Kiwanis, Lions, V. F. W., Legion, Y. M. C. A., Federated Women's Clubs, Parent Teacher Clubs, juvenile courts, etc. should contact Professor L. J. Carr at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan, if they care to participate in such a worthwhile movement in their own locality.

THE LOW DOWN from HICKORY GROVE

Sometimes I wish I had a secretary or somebody to do my figurin' and maybe show me how I can keep afloat, and also spend more than I make, like Uncle Sambo and other geezers.

And the reason I am thinkin' about such a things, is because I see in the paper where they are gonna hire another flock of secretaries down there on the Potomac. So I reckon the figurin' there, it must be gettin' heavier and more complicated, 'cause this new bunch of secretaries, they are to be 10 thousand dollar a year babies. That is 60 thousand for 6 secretaries.

And any secretary who gets 10 thousand, he will need a coupla personal assistants and a half a dozen stenographers. And I have a friend out in Berkeley, California, who runs a Secretaries' College, and if his politics happen to be O. K., I can see how his business will pick up.

And if I owned an acre or a lot down there within 100 miles of Washington, D. C, I would hang on to it, for the time is comin' when they will need more places to build buildings for secretaries.

Yours, with the low-down.

THE CHRISTIAN HOME

In Council Bluffs, Iowa, is located a Home for orphan and destitute children, which is different from any other organization of its kind in the country. This Home was founded nearly fifty-five years ago, by Rev. J. G. Lemen, a godly man of gigantic faith in God. In fact, the Home was founded on the Promises of God.

This Home, which is the Christian Home Orphanage of Council Bluffs, Iowa, is supported entirely by the free will offerings of the lovers of God and Humanity. Thousands of children have passed thru its portals during its over half century of existence. Children who were in the Home, years ago, are now outstanding men and women of today; many have won fame and fortune due to the teachings received while they were children at the Home. These same children had they been left in their original pitiful surroundings, might have helped to fill the penitentiaries of today.

The Christian Home Orghanage is a National Home for children; it is located in Iowa, but it is supported entirely by the voluntary contributions of people from all sections of the country. It receives no appropriations of any kind, and employs no traveling agents, but depends upon your goodness and mine for its support. It conducts its own school, its own laundry and its own well equipped hospital. It also has a small department for aged women.

The work of caring for homeless children, and training them to become Christian men and women, is the most outstanding work of today. The Christian Home Orphanage is doing this work, but it cannot do it without your gifts and your cooperation. This is a work in which all can take part.

For information in regard to this remarkable Home, write to the Christian Home Orphanage, Council Bluffs, Iowa, and literature will be sent to you.

All contributions sent to the Christian Home Orphanage, Council Bluffs, Iowa, are duly acknowledged and credited in the official publication, "Christian Home," in which all financial reports appear, a copy of which will be mailed to you.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By Ray Vinton Johnson and Pierce

Washington, D. C.—Much of the remainder of the once ambitious program President Roosevelt had hoped to put through at this session of Congress will have to be jettisoned. Majority leaders, after a White House conference, have decided on a minimum program of major legislative objectives to be left on the "must" list. It includes only passage of the slum clearance and housing bill, reform of the lower federal courts and the much discussed wages and hours bill. The reason for cutting the program so drastically is simply that a restive congress "must" bolt for home. That is one "must" that did not emanate from the White House. Congressmen should be entitled to some breathing spell considering the dog days in Washington—the hottest spot on earth during August—at least we think so!

When Vice-President Garner told the President that what the country needed now was to be "let alone" so that it could enjoy the returning prosperity, he probably spoke the fervent hope of every American. What Mr. Roosevelt is reported to have answered is that the venerable Texan is twenty years behind the times in expressing his views. There's a lot of truth in both these expressions—so say all of us!

Official Washington is wondering if New York's mayor LaGuardia's preference to run for re-election this fall on the American Labor Party slate forecasts the 1938 congressional and a 1940 Presidential campaign of a strong third political organization. There is such a posibility if both major parties don't heed the writing on the wall, which points to a merger of the Farm, Labor and other Progressive forces.

Things European cannot be as bad as our foreign correspondents would have us believe when Nazi Germany announces that the number of radios in that country had doubled since the Hitlerites grabbed power. What minister of propaganda Goebels neglected to let the world know is that all receiving sets in Good Burghers' homes are limited to a reception range of only thirty-five miles. The listeners there must not be contaminated by un-Nazified news from nearby foreign countries. Which makes us give three cheers for our much maligned radio commission. Imagine not being permitted to hear good Canadian programs or the melodious sleep producing Argentina Rhumba! not three, but a million hurrahs for good old Democracy!

We're passing this on to you for what it's worth. Lawrence Chandler, of Chicago, Ill., writes us as follows: "Before congress adjourns it should consider a lottery bill, which would do much to clear the atmosphere over Washington. Church organizations have enjoyed a monopoly of games of chance shared with the movies. A lottery bill might well prove the opening wedge for repeal of other laws which remain on the statute books because of the hypocrisy of powerful politicians." What do you think? we, as usual, are strictly neutral on matters affecting the morals of our people.

SEEK $50,000 FOR CREATION OF SANCTUARIES, REFUGES

Jackson, Miss.—Designation of Governor Hugh L. White as ex-officio chairman of the Mississippi chapter, General Federation, was announced by Ben M. Stevens, of Richton, secretary of the State Game and Fish Commission and representative from Region Four of the federation.

The purpose of the federation, as explained by Mr. Stevens, is to promote the passage of legislation for the betterment of wildlife conservation, and also to seek passage at the next session of Congress of a federal aid bill, under which Mississippi will receive approximately $50,000 for creation and maintenance of sanctuaries and refuges.

Homer J. Williams, of Grenada, member of the legislature, was named chairman of the state chapter, with regional vice chairman, including X. A. Kramer, of McComb, from the southwest district, and Martin D. King, of Hattiesburg, from the southeast section. District vice-chairmen from the central and northeast areas have not yet been designated.

Si Corley, state conservation director, was selected secretary, and W. F. Dearman, assistant state conservation director, treasurer.

The plan is to set up local chapters to cooperate with the state group, which in turn will work with the national federation.

Mississippi's allocation under the proposed bill will be based on license sales, which at present exceed 101,000, and area.

The bill, already introduced in congress, provides that the United States shall aid the states in wild life restoration projects and for other similar purposes.

"This bill, if passed, will make the sportsman's dollar bear additional fruit," Mr. Stevens said. "The taxes which he has been paying on his sporting equipment will not be the seeds in his own garden of recreational activities."

Commenting on necessity for the legislation, Mr Stevens pointed out that the wildlife populations of the states have shown a marked decrease during the past generation due to number of causes. Droughts, floods, soil erosion, the advance of civilization all have played their part in the destruction of cover and food supplies for the wildlife creatures.

"Conservation of the remaining species of wildlife no longer solves the problem," he said. "Restoration is the only answer now. We must restore food and shelter for 'birds can't nest on the wing nor can animals reproduce on the run.' We must provide a place for wildlife to live and multiply."

The bill proposes to furnish federal aid due to lack of funds being available in the states. It would earmark the money that sportsmen now pay in special taxes on sporting arms and ammunition and divert it to wildlife restoration programs.

"Not one cent of additional taxes will have to be levied," Mr. Stevens said. "The tax money that would be used has heretofore gone to the general treasury of the federal government."

Rosebloom News

The revival at Rosebloom came to a close Sunday night and all greatly enjoyed it.

Miss Corinne Lane and Miss Elizabeth Wolfe returned home after a two weeks' visit with Mrs. Kenton Wolfe of Money, and Miss Jeanelle Curry, of Greenwood.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Bloodworth had as their guests this week, Mrs. C. R. Langston and daughter, Joyce Ann, of New Orleans. They are leaving Wednesday for a few days with her sister, Mrs. A. O. Paxton, of Greenwood. They also had as their guests Mrs. Bloodworth's brother, Mr. H. I. Weeks, of Holly Springs.

We are glad to state that Henry Lane who has been on the sick list for the past few days is much better at this writing.

Mr. J. H. Wolfe is the owner of a Chevrolet car.

Mrs. Kenton Wolfe, of Money, spent Sunday with her brother, Lewis Williams, of Rosebloom.

Mr. Monroe James is now employed at the hosiery factory in Grenada.

Several from here went to the delta fishing last week and report a grand time.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gray are the proud parents of a baby boy. Mrs. Gray will be remembered as Miss Frances Thomas.

Mr. Bob Curry, of Memphis, is expected to visit here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Buchanan, of Jackson, are visiting relatives and friends here this week.

Rev. and Mrs. Morris Buchanan and baby are visiting relatives here.

Large crowds are attending the revival at Zion Grove and greatly enjoying it.

We are having some real hot weather here now, most gardens have dried up and also corn and the cotton crops look real short, due to so much dry weather.

Mrs. Hayden Bloodworth is now having her eyes treated in Grenada.

Coles Creek News

We are so happy to learn that Mr. Charley Byers is much improved, being in the hospital at Memphis, at first there was little hopes for his recovery.

The revival meeting at Shiloh closed last Friday night. Rev. Howard Benson, the pastor, doing the preaching. Many souls were saved. There were also many additions to the church.

Our community was made happy last Thursday with the presence of the Roberts girls, Sarah, Lucy, Effie and Edna. We were so glad to see you girls. Come again and stay longer.

Mrs. Kate Provine and Mrs. Carl Boland visited in the home of Mrs. Jim Gulledge to see Mrs. M. O. Gray last Thursday, Mrs. Gray being there attending the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Trusty visited in the home of their sister, Mrs. M. O. Gray last Friday night.

Mrs. Joe Havens, of Oak Grove, La., visited her sons, Carl and Jesse Havens. She also visited in the home of Mrs. Etta Suggs last week.

Mrs. Landon Crenshaw visited Mrs. W. N. Crenshaw and others last week.

Misses Ruth and Jennie Rousseville attended the revival meeting at Shiloh last week and returned to their home last Sunday.

Industrial MISSISSIPPI

In contrast to the restrictions being placed by government on industry in other sections of the nation, Mississippi is a state which has declared by law that "the present and prospective health, safety, morals, pursuit of happiness, right to gainful employment and general welfare of its citizens demand, as a public purpose, the development within Mississippi of industrial and manufacturing enterprises."

In the first six months of operation of its "balance agriculture with industry" program, Mississippi secured highly reputable new industries giving employment to 2,500 people with annual payrolls totaling $1,500,000 and with property valued at $5,000,000.

Between the last two Federal business censuses Mississippi's percentage increase in number of new industries, number of wage earners, amount of wages paid, and value of manufactured products, has been the second highest of any state in the Union.

This phenomenal record is explained in trends occurring both within and without the state.

Within Mississippi the trend in industrial emphasis is from saw mills to a more diversified list of manufacturing enterprises.

The development of low cost electric power and low cost natural gas fuel — a development having taken place almost wholly in the last dozen years — has made possible for the first time the processing of many of the state's raw materials.

Within the nation as a whole industrial establishments are decentralizing, retreating from high labor and governmental costs to areas which can offer them a more favorable industrial environment.

In at least two major industrial fields — paper making and farm chemurgy—a titanic movement of the nation's plants is taking place toward the South.

The combination of Mississippi's new sources of power and fuel and her demonstrated cooperative attitude toward industries has already attracted a sizeable share of the manufacturing units of the nation on the move.

What new industries mean in bringing about a better balance in Mississippi's economic order is demonstrated by the prosperity of communities in which new industries have located.

Mississippi, a great agricultural state, is going to town industrially.

This map is designed to show the prevailing types of "heavy industry" in Mississippi. It is based on a list of Mississippi industries taken from the sales tax returns of the State Tax Commission, supplemented, where possible, by direct inquiry to local chambers of commerce. This map together with supplementary narrative in folder form is available to schools, civic clubs, and chambers of commerce upon request.

Rules and Regulations Governing The Impounding of Water Courses in Miss.

In order to prevent an increase in the prevalence of malaria and to avoid the formation of foci of endemic malaria by the impounding of waters, under and by virtue of authority vested in it by the Mississippi Legislature, the State Board of Health does hereby adopt and promulgate the following rules and regulations governing the impounding of waters or damming of water courses in the State of Mississippi.

Section 1. The term "impounded water" means: Any body of water formed by the construction or excavation of a basin or the obstruction of stream flow in such a manner as to cause the collection of a body of water which would not have formed under natural conditions.

The term "State Board of Health" means: The Mississippi State Board of Health or its legally authorized representative.

The term "control measures" means: Any measures approved by the State Board of Health in the prevention or control of malaria. These measures include fluctuation of the water level, removal of flotage, drift, or aquatic vegetation, application of larvicides, or screening.

The term "flotage" means. Any appreciable collection of small material on the surface of impounded water, such as leaves, chips, bark, small twigs, grasses and the like, which may provide breeding conditions favorable to malaria-carrying mosquitoes (Anopheles).

The term "drift" means. Any large materials on the surface of impounded water such as logs, brush, and the like which may collect and hold flotage or otherwise produce conditions favorable to the production of malaria-carrying mosquitoes.

Section 2. Any person, firm, corporation, or governmental agency desiring to impound water, or who proposes to raise the level of a previously existing pond by the elevation of points of overflow of a dam, shall, prior to the initiation of any construction activities, make application to the State Board of Health for, and obtain from it, preliminary permit for the impounding of such water.

Provided: That this section shall not be construed to apply to ponds of less than ½ acre for watering stock or other domestic purposes, nor to impounded waters so located that no portion of them lies within one mile of any permanent human hamitation, congregation, or place of business, other than that of the owner.

Section 3. Such application for a preliminary permit shall be made in writing in the name of the person, firm, corporation, or governmental agency making application, and shall be accompanied by a description of the proposed project, its purpose, and its exact location; also by an accurate plat of the area to be affected, showing particularly the maximum and minimum water levels.

Section 4. Such a temporary permit for the inauguration of initial construction shall be issued by the State Board of Health when the following rules and regulations, or modifications thereof, have been made to apply to the said subject.

Provided: That all the provisions of this Section need not apply to impounding projects when, in the opinion of the State Board of Health, there are other factors or circumstances which render or may render the observance or compliance with the provisions of this Section unnecessary.

4-a. In the area to be occupied by the reservoir, its branches, bights, and indentations, all brush, trees, undergrowth, logs, stumps and similar objects, which, if not removed, would float or collect flotage on the surface of the impounded water, and all of the above material that is lying on the ground or remaining in original or new position, which would probably cause collection of flotage to gather, and thus constitute conditions favorable to the protection of larvae of mosquitoes capable of conveying malaria, shall be removed, burned, or otherwise satisfactorily disposed of, prior to the impounding of water.

Provided: That the above does not include grass, vegetation, brush, trees, stumps, and the like, which will be permanently and completely submerged at time of low water and which are, therefore, not of sanitary importance.

4-b. In the area to be occupied by the reservoir, its branches, bights, and indentations, all brush, trees, and undergrowth which would pierce the surface at low water level shall be cut off at least one foot below such water level, to prevent the collection and anchorage of any possible flotage, drift, or the like.

4-c. The shore line of the reservoir, its branches, bights, and indentations, from minimum low water level to a line 15 feet horizontally beyond normal high level, shall be cleared of all brush, trees, undergrowth, and the like, so as to prevent the collection of drift and flotage except when specifically exempted by the State Board of Health.

4-d. All pine trees within an area circumscribed by a line 50 feet inland from the maximum high water level of the reservoir, its branches, bights, and indentations, shall be ringed and deadened at the time of initial construction on the project, so as to prevent the falling into the water of pine tags, collections of which provide a favorable breeding place for Anopheline larvae.

4-e. Small ponds, or other waters, suitable for the propagation of Gambusia (top minnows) in sufficient numbers to stock the reservoir, its branches, bights, and indentations for effective mosquito-control, shall be provided at the time of initial construction on the project, in accordance with definite written instructions from the State Board of Health.

4-f. All depressions which will be filled with water from the reservoir, its branches, bights, and indentations at time of maximum water level, in which water will be retained at lower stages of the water level, thus forming separate pools, shall be connected with the normal body of the reservoir, or any of its branches, bights, or indentations, with a ditch or culvert which will permit complete drainage and the entrance of top minnows at low-water stage.

4-g. In the designing and construction of the impounding project, flashboards or other means shall be provided for controlling fluctuation of the water level at any season of the year.

4-h. In the designing and construction of impoundage projects of less than 25 acres, bottom drains or other means shall be provided which will permit removal of the impounded water.

4-i. The person, firm, corporation, or governmental agency responsible for construction shall carry out such measures as may be prescribed by the State Board of Health, for preventing the introduction of malaria through infected employees coming from without the reservoir area or its environs.

Section 5. A preliminary permit for the impounding of water having been granted by the State Board of Health, and construction work on the project begun, a representative of the State Board of Health shall make inspection of the project from time to time, and shall approve in writing of that portion of the work as is outlined in Section 4 of these Regulations which has been satisfactorily completed.

As the said representative of the State Board of Health determines that the preliminary permit holder is complying with the provisions of Section 4-a of these Regulations, the permit holder may thereupon proceed, as authorized by written approval from the State Board of Health, with the impounding of water to a level specified by said representative of the State Board of Health, and, when it shall appear that the permit holder has complied with the Regulations to the satisfaction of the said Board, the said Board of Health shall certify such fact to the permit holder in writing and the permit holder may thereupon proceed with the impounding of water to a maximum high water level.

Provided: That any filling of the reservoir shall not occur during the breeding season of the malaria carrying mosquito, namely, April to September inclusive, unless otherwise authorized in writing by the State Board of Health.

Section 6. The State Board of Health shall thereupon issue a final permit for the maintenance of the impounded project by said applicant, the validity of said permit being contingent upon the observance of the following regulations:

6-a. During the mosquito breeding season the permit holder shall regularly and frequently remove all flotage and floating debris in the reservoir, its branches, bights and indentations which are producing mosquitoes within one mile of human habitation, and shall during mosquito breeding season satisfactorily apply such control measures as approved by the State Board of Health and the U. S. Public Health Service to all Anopheles breeding areas of the reservoir or parts of the impounded waters, and shall furnish to the State Board of Health such reports as may be specified by the said Board.

6-b. Prompt and proper measures shall be taken to prevent the growth of cat-tails, bulrushes, and other aquatic or semi-aquatic vegetation which offers protection for Anopheles larvae from their fish enemies.

6-c. Newly created impounded waters shall not be stocked with game fish, (trout or bass and pike), without written permission from the State Board of Health and the State Game and Fish Commission.

6-d. After the water has been impounded, the State Board of Health shall from time to time make such inspections of the impounded waters and adjacent areas as are deemed necessary; and any conditions found on the impounded water project that are, or may be, detrimental to the public health, or are likely to cause an increase of malaria ,shall be modified by the permit holder so as to be satisfactory to the State Board of Health.

6-e. These Regulations shall govern any change in water level or the re-impounding of waters, and as soon as any proposed changes affecting the maximum water elevation are contemplated, the State Board of Health shall be notified in writing.

Section 7. Failure to comply with the provisions of any section or sub-section of these regulations shall constitute a violation thereof, and shall constitute, according to Section 4897 of The Mississippi Code of 1930, a misdemeanor, punishable as provided in that Act.

Section 8. Should any parts of these regulations be declared invalid for any reason, the remainder of said regulations shall not be affected thereby.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By Ray Walter Johnson and Pierce.

Washington, D. C.—For a few hours after Vice-President Garner jammed the "Court Bill" thru an unwary Senate, Congress put on an act like one of those old-time mellerdrammers where a man on horseback gallops in shouting, "the Dam is burst! take to the hills!" which meant the hills at home. To hear the rejoicing you'd have thought there were no more bills to pass. But the Treasury came around and reminded them of the "tax loophole" matter and somebody else mentioned the wage and hours bill and the housing bill and several dozen more big ones including Farm Relief.

A good many old-timers are whispering that the country is tired of reform and that the whole program could be ditched without a howl back home, but then it's been so long since some of the lawmakers were "back home" that they aren't sure any more just how the folks feel. As one Senator remarked, "the only folks you hear from are the ones who can write and have the price of a postage stamp besides." There are still some unemployed—some eight million according to one recent estimate—and they may still be interested in reform.

The Senate Labor Committee has just recommended a five million dollar appropriation to count the jobless sometime before next April 1, 1938. The date alone is enough to queer it. Besides it might be cheaper in the long-run to add a couple of millions and offer the out-of-workers a dollar apiece to come in and register. They say it still works with the voters in some sections.

Official Washington is keeping a scoreboard for governors, and Benson, of Minnesota, who used to be a senator once himself back in the days when Congress went home for the summer, has put his name in the column of those who say "Roosevelt in 1940." Earl, of Pennsylvania, spoke up first on the subject and Allred, of Texas, followed him. Governor Quinn, of Rhode Island, landed from Europe the other day and opposed a third term for F. D. R. But thought Governor Earle was definitely in the running. Round and round it goes and where it stops—well it comes out here.

Governor Benson, who was in New York, leading a peace parade, took a rap at his former colleague, Senator Copeland, who is the Tammany candidate for Mayor of that city. Then the President who was supposed to be spending a non-political week-end let it be understood that as a New York Democrat he would support Mahoney, the candidate of the anti-Tammany Democrats. But nothing was said about the President's choice between Mahoney who is looked on as a safe bet against Copeland and Mayor Laguardia. The story here in Washington has been the same for nearly a year. If Laguardia loses he is sure of a "big job." Unless, of course, he heads the Labor-Farm-Progressive party predicted for 1940. And the L-F-P party is the goblin that conservative members of both the Republican and Democratic parties wake up in the middle of the night and find sitting grinning on the footboards of their beds.

The School Survey Committee in Session

(By J. S. Vandiver)

The Legislative School Survey Committee is now in session making a further study of the school system of the state. Important changes were made in the laws last year as a direct result of their studies. This committee plans to be in session for several days during the next two or three months will visit many of the counties in the state gathering information on the present set up with the view of further recommendations to the Legislature in January. We are asking that the school people and citizens of the counties in which they visit give their full cooperation to these gentlemen.

The people of Mississippi are vitally interested in the school program, and the study that is being made should prove to be of great value in the reorganization of various phases of school work which will make it possible to get the greatest benefits with the amount of funds available for the operation of the schools.

Again let us emphasize the necessity of one-hundred per cent cooperation of county superintendents, county school board members, trustees, teachers and the citizens generally.

We Thank You

For the wonderful welcome you gave us. You know how to welcome a new store, and you did it in a manner truly befitting the wonderful city and territory in which you live. Seldom has there been such a demonstration of patronage, good-will and friendly interest in a new store. You came, saw the merchandise, appreciated the most modern system of grocery selling - and you bought. We are grateful and enthusiastic with our beginning.
